Course Description

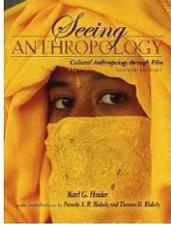

This course uses the discipline of anthropology to answer the question: How should one view cultural difference? We will explore this question through the theoretical prism of anthropology and the examples provided by ethnographic films. Specifically, we will discuss (a) the problems with ethnocentric portrayals of different cultures in mainstream cinema (ethnocentrism); (b) how cultures see themselves (the emic perspective); (c) whether we can compare cultures to each other (etic perspective); and finally, (d) what happens when different cultures interact with each other in a globalized world.

Learning Objectives

1. Students will be able to understand the anthropological conception of culture.
2. Students will be able to identify and challenge ethnocentric thinking.
3. Students will gain a working appreciation for the anthropological methods of cultural relativism and participant observation.
4. Students will be able to identify the emic concepts and categories significant to particular societies.
5. Students will be able to analyze the etic categories of cultural classification in anthropology.
6. Students will work in groups to apply anthropological theories to case studies of globalization.

How the Course is Organized

This class consists of 4 units within which there are 14 lessons. Since it is adapted from a 15-week semester to an 8-week summer term, we will cover one unit per (roughly) two weeks, or (roughly) two lessons per week. Each week will be broken into two parts to correspond to the two lessons: Monday-Wednesday, and Thursday-Sunday. For each lesson, students will be expected to click on the corresponding link and fulfill the requirements there within, such as: listen to a lecture, read from the assigned text, articles and websites, view a film, discuss key questions with classmates, signup for group projects, submit assignments and complete quizzes and projects. All assignments and quizzes will be due at the end of each part, either Wednesday at 11pm or Sunday at 11pm. The one exception will be the final quiz 5, which is due on the last day of the term, Thursday, July 3rd at 11pm. Discussions have an alternative schedule and will always be due in the second part (Thursday-Sunday) of the week: the first original post due by Friday at 11pm and then two responses due by Sunday at 11pm.

Grading

Grades will be determined according to the following weighted categories:

Category	% of final grade	Final grade % per graded submission
4 Discussions	10	2.5
5 Quizzes	35	7
3 Assignments	30	10
1 Final Project	25	25

Students can learn their current grade in the course by going to My Grades and looking at the percentage score in the Current Grade/Weighted Total column.

Grading Scale

90-100	A
80-89	B
70-79	C
60-69	D
Below 60	F

A. Discussions (4 Forums worth 5 points each for 10% of final grade)

Throughout the course, there will be 4 Discussions in which students are required to participate. Upon completion or near completion of the assigned readings, lectures and viewings, students are expected to engage in an ongoing discussion with your learning community peers. Students will respond to the Discussion prompts or questions with one original response. To post an original response, students will click on the 'Create Thread' tab. This original response will be due by Friday (at 11pm) of weeks when due. After submitting the original response, students will have the weekend to respond to at least two responses from other students. Remember to click on 'Reply with Quote' tab when responding. The two responses will be due before Sunday (at 11pm) of weeks when due. Discussion posts will be graded for originality and thoughtfulness. Out of the 5 points possible for each Discussion, the original post will be graded out of 3 points, and the additional two responses will be worth one point each.

Two points to think about for Discussions:

- For Discussion #3 (Lesson 6), students will discuss a given film in smaller groups. During Lesson 5, students will select a region on which to focus. This region will determine which films they view for Lessons 6, 7, and 13, as well as their discussion group for Discussion #3 and Final Project group for Lessons 13 & 14. The regions are: Oceania, Southeast Asia, South Asia, West Africa, Latin America.
- When writing discussion posts, keep courtesy in mind: Please be courteous to the other students in the class. You might find it helpful to read your posting out loud before you submit it: the "tone" is a very important part of electronic communication. When you read your message out loud does it sound the way you would speak to another student in the classroom? If not, you should rewrite it.

2. Online Quizzes (5 worth 20 points each for 35% of final grade)

There will be five quizzes throughout this course that cover online lectures and reading material (with the exception of the first quiz which will cover this syllabus and schedule!). Students can access quizzes by clicking on the Complete file on the designated page. Each quiz will consist of 20 questions worth one point each and will consist of multiple choice questions. Students will have 30 minutes to complete the quiz and it can be accessed only one time within the scheduled time window. Save answers often (every 5-10 minutes). If a student experiences any issues while taking the exam, he or she must contact the Helpdesk immediately so that the issue is documented with a helpdesk ticket number. Without a ticket number, the instructor will not be able to help. Considerations regarding exam issues will be made by the instructor on an individual basis based on the documentation. After each quiz is graded and released, students may check answers via the My Grades tab.

Quizzes will cover the following material:

Quiz 1: The Syllabus & Schedule

Quiz 2: Unit 1

Quiz 3: Unit 2

Quiz 4: Unit 3

Quiz 5: Unit 4

3. Assignments (3 worth 20 points each for 30% of final grade)

There will be three writing assignments throughout the term. For each assignment, students will submit a short piece of writing that builds on course material.

Assignments will be submitted via Turnitin, which is an internet-based academic writing service. Assignments submitted via any other medium (e.g.-email) will not be accepted. If students provide medical documentation (signed by a medical professional) of an inability to complete the assignment by the deadline, they will be allowed to submit at a later date. The assignments will be graded out of 20 points. Grading rubrics for each assignment will be made available to students.

4. Final Project (Worth 100 points for 25% of final grade)

During Lesson 5, students will select a region on which to focus. By doing so, they will enter groups that will determine which films they view for Lessons 6 & 7, and which discussion group for Lesson 6. These groups (of five students) will also serve as their Final project group for Lessons 13-14. The objective of the final project is for students to think critically about a given set of globalization theories based on the case study of their region's particular film. Below is a list of the films:

Region	Film
Oceania	Disappearing Tuvalu
Southeast Asia	B.A.T.A.M.
South Asia	Maharaja Burger
West Africa	Abloni
Latin America	The Way Home

Each group will produce one wiki (provided within the course website) to which each member will make individual contributions to two different sections:

Section 1. Background Information: For this section, each student will select one of the following five roles (during Lesson 12) and conduct independent research on the history of the people/country featured in the film in regards to the selected role. Each student will then provide a short (10-15 sentences) synopsis in response to a set of questions for each role.

- a. Pre-Colonial Historian
- b. Colonial Historian
- c. Post-Colonialism
- d. Cultural Anthropologist
- e. Economist

Students must finish Section 1 by the end of Lesson 13, which will be June 29th at 11pm. Any contributions made after this time will not be accepted for grade.

Section 2. Theory Debate: During Lesson 12, students will also select a 'role' to represent in a group debate. Each 'role' will be based on a person in the film or theoretical perspective discussed in Lessons 13/14. Then, in Lesson 14, each student will represent his or her 'role' in a group debate regarding questions related to globalization theories (discussed in Lessons 13/14). Each student must contribute one original response (at least ten sentences) in which he or she answers the set of questions from the perspective of his/her role. Then, the student will be required to respond at least twice (at least five sentences each) to his/her group mates.

Students must finish Section 2 by the end of Lesson 14, which will be July 2nd at 11pm. Changes to the wiki will not be allowed after this time.

* Despite being a group project, each student will receive an individual grade. Grades will be determined 1. by Role sign-up in Lesson 12 (10%) and 2. by how well the student provides his/her selected background information (45%) and statements in the debate (45%).

Course Schedule

A schedule of the course's lessons and due dates is available on the course website under the tab: Course Content/Course Introduction and within the Essential Documents tab.

COURSE POLICIES

1. Assignment Policy

Assignments will be due three times throughout the course at 11 pm on the following dates: May 21st, June 8th, June 22nd. Students are required to submit written assignments for this class to Turnitin, a web-based plagiarism detection service. All works submitted for credit must be original works created by the scholar uniquely for the class. It is considered inappropriate and unethical to make duplicate submissions of a single work for credit in multiple classes, unless specifically requested by the instructor. Before submitting a paper to Turnitin, please remove the title page and other personal information. Papers submitted via any other medium (e.g. -email) will not be accepted. If students provide medical documentation (signed by a medical professional) of an inability to complete the assignment by the deadline, they will be allowed to submit at a later date.

2. Quiz Policy

Students will have a three to four days to complete quizzes. Make-up quizzes will not be allowed UNLESS the student provides the instructor with medical documentation (signed by medical professional) that attests to the inability to complete the quiz in the given time period. If the student loses an internet connection while taking the exam, 1) the student is to call the student IT help desk, explain the situation and receive a ticket number; 2) then write the instructor with the IT ticket # (the instructor will not respond to your request without a ticket #).

3. Group Projects

Although final projects will be organized in terms of groups, each individual will be evaluated and graded over his/her specific contribution. Each group will watch the same film, discuss the same globalization theories, and contribute to the same wiki. However, since individuals will be responsible for specific sections, individual contributions will be identifiable to the grader.

4. Extra Credit

There will be two opportunities for students to earn extra credit. In the course introduction, students will receive one percentage extra credit for completing the introduction to the course survey. In Lesson 14 and Final's week, students will receive one percentage extra credit for completing the SETE course evaluation.

3. Instructor Communication

- a) The instructor will be happy to answer questions regarding lectures, grades, discussions, assignments, quizzes, projects or any other information covered in the course.
- b) Students can expect to hear back from the instructor within 24 hours of the initial email (48 hours on the weekend).
- c) Students are expected to state their name and course number in the subject line of emails. The instructor is teaching several summer classes.

4. Class Participation

Students are required to login regularly to the online class site. The instructor will use the tracking feature in Blackboard to monitor student activity. Students are also required to participate in all class activities such as discussion board and group projects.

5. Virtual Classroom Citizenship

The same guidelines that apply to traditional classes should be observed in the virtual classroom environment. Please use proper netiquette when interacting with class members and the professor.

6. Copyright Notice

Some or all of the materials on this course Web site may be protected by copyright. Federal copyright law prohibits the reproduction, distribution, public performance, or public display of copyrighted materials without the express and written permission of the copyright owner, unless fair use or another exemption under copyright law applies.

7. Administrative Withdrawal

If the student is unable to complete this course, the student must officially withdraw by the University-designated date (for a “W” with instructor approval) or contact the instructor in request of an incomplete. Withdrawing from a course is a formal procedure that the student must initiate. I cannot do it for you. If you simply stop attending and do not withdraw, you will receive a performance grade, usually an “F.”

8. Policy on Server Unavailability or Other Technical Difficulties

The University is committed to providing a reliable online course system to all users. However, in the event of any unexpected server outage or any unusual technical difficulty which prevents students from completing a time sensitive assessment activity, the instructor will extend the time windows and provide an appropriate accommodation based on the situation. Students should immediately report any problems to the instructor and also contact the UNT Student Help Desk: helpdesk@unt.edu or 940.565.2324. The instructor and the UNT Student Help Desk will work with the student to resolve any issues at the earliest possible time.

9. Academic Honesty Policy

The Department of Anthropology does not tolerate plagiarism, cheating, or helping others to cheat. Students suspected of any of these will be provided the opportunity for a hearing; a guilty finding will merit an automatic “F” in the course. For information on the University’s policies regarding academic integrity and dishonesty, see the UNT Center for Student Rights and Responsibilities, <http://www.unt.edu/csrr/>.

11. ADA Policy

The University of North Texas makes reasonable academic accommodation for students with disabilities. Students seeking accommodation must first register with the Office of Disability Accommodation (ODA) to verify their eligibility. If a disability is verified, the ODA will provide you with an accommodation letter to be delivered to faculty to begin a private discussion regarding your specific needs in a course. You may request accommodations at any time, however, ODA notices of accommodation should be provided as early as possible in the semester to avoid any delay in implementation. Note that students must obtain a new letter of accommodation for every semester and must meet with each faculty member prior to implementation in each class. For additional information see the Office of Disability Accommodation website at <http://disability.unt.edu/>. You may also contact them by phone at 940.565.4323.

12. Important Notice for F-1 Students taking Distance Education Courses:

For F-1 students enrolled in classes for credit or classroom hours, no more than the equivalent of one class or three credits per session, term, semester, trimester, or quarter may be counted toward the full course of study requirement if the class is taken on-line or through distance education and does not require the student's physical attendance for classes, examination or other purposes integral to completion of the class. An on-line or distance education course is a course that is offered principally through the use of television, audio, or computer transmission including open broadcast, closed circuit, cable, microwave, or satellite, audio conferencing, or computer conferencing. If the F-1 student's course of study is in a language study program, no on-line or distance education classes may be considered to count toward a student's full course of study requirement.

University of North Texas Compliance

To comply with immigration regulations, an F-1 visa holder within the United States may need to engage in an on-campus experiential component for this course. This component (which must be approved in advance by the instructor) can include activities such as taking an on-campus exam, participating in an on-campus lecture or lab activity, or other on-campus experience integral to the completion of this course.

If such an on-campus activity is required, it is the student's responsibility to do the following:

- (1) Submit a written request to the instructor for an on-campus experiential component within one week of the start of the course.
- (2) Ensure that the activity on campus takes place and the instructor documents it in writing with a notice sent to the International Student and Scholar Services Office. ISSS has a form available that you may use for this purpose.

Because the decision may have serious immigration consequences, if an F-1 student is unsure about his or her need to participate in an on-campus experiential component for this course, s/he should contact the UNT International Student and Scholar Services Office (telephone 940-565-2195 or email internationaladvising@unt.edu) to get clarification before the one-week deadline.
