Course Description

This course is a brief introduction to gerontology as an interdisciplinary field of study, a field that includes important psychological, social, economic and demographic dimensions and forces that are altering the life of individuals and the operation of various societies. The course will briefly examine the biological, the psychological, the social, the economic factors and dimensions that make up the aging experiences of individuals as well as how "aging population" affects the way we organize in various societies. Public policy issues will be a focus of each class to show the relevance of the basic science material presented in the class.

1-2-3 Assignments and grades:

1. Statistics report = 10%

"The older population--persons 65 years or older--numbered 39.6 million in 2009 (the most recent year for which data are available). They represented 12.9% of the U.S. population, over one in every eight Americans. The number of older Americans increased by 4.3 million or 12.5% since 1999, compared to an increase of 12.3% for the under-65 population. However, the number of Americans aged 45-64 – who will reach 65 over the next two decades – increased by 26% during this period."

   The information in this section of the AoA website brings together a wide variety of statistical information about this growing population.

Go to the AoA Profile of Older Americans at:

http://www.aoa.gov/AoARoot/Aging_Statistics/Profile/index.aspx

Each student should choose from one of these "Profile's" from the Table of Contents and write one report: Choose one:

- The Older Population
- Future Growth
- Marital Status
- Living Arrangements
- Racial and Ethnic Composition

- Geographic Distribution
- Income
- Poverty
- Housing
- Employment
- Education

- Health and Health Care
- Health Insurance Coverage
- Disability and Activity Limitations
- Caregiving

Write 5 paragraphs about your chosen topic - Use material both from the AoA Site from the Text.  CITES = (AoA Report, page #) and (Text, page #)

Posting due on Statistics Discussion area -
2. Major paper = 30%

- Do a report on one of the nine trends in “Why Population Aging Matters: A Global Perspective.” (You should read the whole report, about 32 pages.)

PDF Report also, online at: http://www.nia.nih.gov/sites/default/files/WPAM.pdf

The Nine Trends to choose from are:

- Trend 1: An Aging Population.
- Trend 2: Increasing Life Expectancy.
- Trend 3: Rising Numbers of the Oldest Old.
- Trend 4: Growing Burden of Noncommunicable Diseases.
- Trend 5: Aging and Population Decline.
- Trend 7: Shifting Patterns of Work and Retirement.
- Trend 9: Emerging Economic Challenges.

Include material from our Discussions and Text that can help us understand your chosen Trend, as well as any other material relevant to the subject that you wish. You may include charts and graphs - but do not count them in page count. (10-12 pages plus references plus charts and graphs, if needed.)

Cite the report and any other material you reference.

(NIH, 2007)

- Submit a topic statement etc. to the Major Paper discussion area
- See Major Paper grading rubric for guidance.
- Submit your Final paper to Instructor via the Assignment drop box.
- Major paper due on or before May 2, 2013.
3. Attendance and participation = Discussion Postings
- 60% for 15 units @ up to 4% per unit.

- Notice the grade value of the discussion portion of the course grading. Participation is measured by the scholarly quality of your postings. Discussion rules include:

- It is OK To Cite the course Text in Discussion Postings as (Text, p.#1) etc. (without full Cite)
- Class Discussions are graded. - Valid contributions in a discussion will involve posting pertinent questions, answers to issues, or problems; providing helpful answers in such postings, recommending helpful learning resources outside the course such as useful Internet Websites; or any other SUBSTANTIVE contribution to the learning process. BE SURE TO READ THE DISCUSSION ASSIGNMENT (twice) AND RESPOND TO ALL ITS' PARTS.
- HTML: utilize simple formatting tools, like in Word... Bold, Italic, etc. Use it to make WWW Links "live" - insert pictures Etc.
- Copy/Paste - You should ALWAYS construct your discussion posts using Word or Notepad. - use spellcheck - If you use Word: construct your posting, turn on HTML Creator, highlight your Word post and drag it to the post window. Line breaks will not be perfect... it depends how you use the return/Enter key in Word, and more. A great feature about doing it this way is live links in Word will become live links in HTML Creator. You can always edit your post later.
- Attaching Files: To ensure a lively discussion and encourage substantive replies, you are asked NOT to just attach a file to your post. You are welcome to attach files but we much prefer to see the post without having to open an attachment to view it. Do both, post AND attach, if you need to.
- Subject Lines: Use a descriptive subject line that represents the content of your posting. - "week-1 Discussion" (Etc.) is OK for your discussion assignment post, but if you want to make another original post you may want to change that to reflect the content, EX: "I found these links about..."
- Always use Netiquette please. Post can be moved by instructor, and crude, rude or vile problem post removed. You are allowed to Edit postings later if you find a mistake
- CITE your material... when referring to or quoting our Textbook it is OK to simply use (Text, page#) as a reference in Discussions.
- Please refer to the Discussion Board Grading Guideline Rubric to guide construction of your postings.
- It is advised you complete your assigned reading before you post... You may find it easier to post before reading other student postings. You are all reading the same material to discuss the same assignment so there is bound to be repetition in the answers... you overcome this by completing the assignment to get the highest grade possible for yourself and not worrying that you may have stated the same as another.
- Please reply to other student postings after you post. Read them all and reply to others as you feel moved to do so, especially if you have something to add to the discussion. It is a "Discussion" board, open to all your thoughtful comments. Posting of substantial reply(s) / comments to other student postings enhance the topic discussion.
Technical Course Requirements

Students must have access to Internet services from home, public library or university labs. Students must have access to Microsoft Windows capabilities for Word, Excel, and PowerPoint. In addition, PDF Files are used in this course.

Americans with Disabilities Act

It is the policy of your instructor to comply fully with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and to make reasonable accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. Please present your written request for accommodation at the start of the semester.

Policy on Cheating and Plagiarism

Cheating and plagiarism are serious matters. The usual penalties for these offenses include failure for the assignment, failure in the course, and a written report to the Dean of Students. Plagiarism is the act of taking the ideas and/or words of others and presenting them as your own. If you are uncertain how to cite your sources, please contact the course instructor for assistance.

Syllabus as a Contract

The University attorney advises faculty members to notify students that the syllabus is not a contract and is therefore subject to change. We will try to adhere to the schedule provided, but it is important to note that changes may be necessary to meet unforeseen needs and events.
